Question 1 of 486 Mark

A user has enabled instance protection for an auto scaling group that has spot instances. When scaling in, if Auto Scaling wants to terminate instances in this auto scaling group, due to a CloudWatch trigger unrelated to bid price or a failed health check, what will happen?

- Auto scaling overwrites the instance protection attribute and terminates the instances.
- Auto Scaling will remove the instance from the protected Auto scaling group, and then terminate them.
- The EC2 instance will not be terminated because instance protection from scale-in is enabled.
- Auto Scaling will notify the user for the next action.

Correct Answer : C

Explanation :
Auto Scaling protects instances from termination during scale-in events. This means that Auto Scaling instance protection will receive the CloudWatch trigger to delete instances, and delete instances in the Auto Scaling group that do not have instance protection enabled. However, instance protection won't protect spot instance termination triggered due to market price exceeding bid price.
